Background

Our wines are expression the pristine nature where the grapes are grown. The result are balanced and complex wines that trasmit both the care given to the vineyards and the soil's mineral nature, due to its marine origins. Sangervasio produces wines with a contemporary style, made with the contribution of international varieties, but mostly with local grapes, which are the estate's main focus: Sangiovese, Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, Vermentino and Trebbiano. San Gervasio is located inside the wonderful frame of the Pisa Hills, 25 Km far from the Thyrrenian Sea, surrounded by the pristine landscape of the Tuscan countryside. The whole estate consists of 400 hectares, of which 22 have been grown with vineyards, between 160 and 200 meters above sea level. The Mediterranean climate, dry and well ventilated, and the proximity of the sea make San Gervasio the perfect place for the cultivation of quality grapes.

Tasting Notes

It was born to exalt the character of the pure Merlot grown in the estate's high density vineyards. I Renai shows the richness and the exotic style of the Merlot grown in Sangervasio. Great structure. Exotic and complex. Deep ruby red, with rich fruity aromas (blackberry and cherry), followed by toasty notes (cocoa and tobacco).
